DETAILED ACTION

Status of the Claims

Claims 9-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement.

Claim 10 is objected to.

Claims 16-22 are allowed.

Claim Objections

Claim 10 is objected to because of the following informalities: claim 10 ends with two periods. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 9-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Claim 9 recites the limitation "greater than or equal to the predefined maximum instruction counter and a maximum deviation of instructions" on lines 11-12. This limitation is not supported by the specification. The specification makes clear that the individual command execution mode is utilized when the number of instructions is equal to or greater than the maximum instruction counter minus the maximum deviation. The current language of the claims appears to require that the individual mode is invoked when the instruction count is equal to or greater than the MIC in addition to the maximum deviation. If this were true, the maximum deviation would have to be a negative number, which it is not, or the individual command mode would never be entered. Appropriate correction of the claim language is required.

Allowable Subject Matter

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Prior art was not found that explicitly teaches or fairly suggests a control element that switches the execution unit to the individual command execution mode when the comparator element determines that the counter element matches a value, the value being a maximum instruction count offset by a maximum deviation of instructions when the CPU is in a standard operation mode as outlined in claims 16 and 19.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
